The public indebtedness of Mississippi amounts, in the aggregate, to $5,600,000, of which only $7,500,600 was the direct debt of the State, leaving a balance of $6,000,000 as the indirect debt of the State. The interest upon this indirect debt would annually amount to more than the aggregate annual receipts into the Treasury. The direct debt is very small, and the studies fund accumulating with ultimately protect that amount of the public in abbecomes.
